

How does Animal Communication work?

Susanne connects with the heart of the animals through her heart. She reads their energy, and gets pictures, feelings, sensations or words.

Every animal and every communication session is different.

One time a cat asked me “You talkin’ to me?” in the voice of Robert De Niro.

Vice versa, animals read our thoughts. I know that for sure when one of my sled dogs executed a command I never said out loud.

Why Animal Communication? Give your animals a voice.

- You can talk to your animals like you would with your friends. They often have a higher perspective on what is going on in your life, what you need, and how to move on.
- Get insights on health and behavioural concerns of your animal. This often solves the problems.
- Death is not the end of your relationship with your pet. If you want to connect with them now, no problem. They are waiting for you, and I will translate for you.
- It helps animals understand what is going on in their lives.
For example:
 - before your and their travel,
 - before a vet visit or
 - about major life changes in your life, like a move or the birth of a child.
